Al Jazeera Al Hamra

As one of the most historically significant places in the Arabian Gulf, Al Jazeera Al Hamra offers couples the once in a lifetime opportunity to host their celebrations amongst early century architecture. Perfectly preserved under a layer of yellow desert sand, the Al Jazeera Al Hamra, meaning Red Island, was small fishing village with a significant past, known to be one of the last surviving pearl diving and seafaring towns of the Arabian Gulf.

MARRIAGE PLANNING SUPPORT

Ras Al Khaimah offers a dedicated online training course for planners and to-be-wed couples to gain expert knowledge and train for all aspects of planning and executing weddings in the Emirate. As one of the region's most progressive destinations, Ras Al Khaimah is also offering couples from around the world the opportunity to arrange a Civil Marriage ceremony during their stay. In the UAE, Civil Marriage is a legal contract that binds a man and a woman of non-Muslim faith, and is a popular option for couples who prefer a secular celebration. To make the application process as seamless as possible, the Ras Al Khaimah Tourism Development Authority permits wedding planners to apply for a license on behalf of couples planning to get married, making the Emirate an ideal destination for couples seeking a romantic and stress-free experience.

WEDDING INCENTIVES

Planning a wedding in Ras Al Khaimah is now even more appealing, with a range of exclusive incentives that have been curated to enhance this special day. From discounted travel arrangements and stylish limousine pickups to complimentary room upgrades and indulgent spa treatments, these thoughtful incentives can add a touch of luxury and ensure a truly unforgettable experience for the soon-to-be-wed couples.
